Notes:

Arrived on site at 8:48 a.m. Weather was partly cloudy with wind out of the northwest. I walked the stubble field to the SE of the well pad and observed discoloration due to oil spray on the straw stubble. Area of impact is about 15 X 200 feet on stubble field. In addition, I observed snow discoloration along the SE side of the well pad entrance road. This area is about 50 feet long by 5 to 7 feet wide and located in the tall grass area of the pad that borders the stubble field.

A company rep arrived on site and provided the name of a contact person who is in charge of the cleanup. Contacted Kelly Grimm, and she informed me the company is working with the landowner. I informed her they might want to collect the discolored snow from along the pad and grass area around the pad for proper disposal. Told the rep on site the same thing. The area surrounding the pad drains into Blacktail Dam to the south of the site. Kelly also informed the NDDoH that company is going to plug the culverts on site so nothing leaves the site. Company will provide follow-up information on the cleanup of the site.
